GERMANY NOW MASSING TROOPS FOR STRUGGLE

This is the Belief at Paris Based on Reports From the Front—British Regained Trenches on Hill Sixty Lost Yesterday Through Poisonous Gases—Desperate Battle Still Rages in the Capathians, Continuing all Night—The Austro-German Forces are Capturing Many Russian Positions—Turkey Says Allies Hold but two Points on Gallipoli Peninsula—Three More Ships Torpedoed and Sunk—England Asks Egypt to Stop Shipping Cotton Except to Allies—Asquith Reports Dardanelles Attack Satisfactory.

[By Associated Press.]
Paris, May 6.—The French War Office says the French last night easily repulsed another German attack north of Ypres.

The British have regained part of the trenches on Hill Number Sixty, which they lost to the Germans yesterday during attacks with poisonous gases.

Unofficial reports indicate Germany to be massing troops for another drive to the English Channel.

DESPERATE BATTLE RAGES.

[By Associated Press.]
Vienna, May 6.—A battle of the most desperate character continued all night and all today without let-up on the West Galician front.

The Austro-German forces continued to gain ground on the southwestern section of the battle front, capturing position after position from the Russians.

Turkey Makes Denial.

[By Associated Press.]
Constantinople, May 6.—The War Office announces that the allies hold only two points on Gallipoli Peninsula, both on the coast, one at Seddul Bahr and the other at Arburas. Only the constant fire of the warships enables them to hold these positions. The reports that Gallipoli and Nacaras are occupied by the allies are untrue, say the Turks.

Three More Torpedoed.

[By Associated Press.]
London, May 6.—The steamer Cathay, bound from Copenhagen for Chinese ports, either hit a mine or was torpedoed in the North Sea last night. She sank in twenty minutes, but all her passengers and crew were saved.

A German submarine sank the trawler Stratton by gun fire and took the crew aboard the submarine.

Another submarine sank the schooner Earl of Latham off the Irish coast with shells. A trawler rescued the crew.

Arrested for Espionage.

[By Associated Press.]
Vienna, May 6.—Former United States Senator Lafayette Young of Des Moines, Iowa, and the former American vice consul at Bern, Switzerland, arrested at Innsbruck, Austria, on suspicion of espionage, proved to be a case of mistaken identity. Both were released and apologies were made to Mr. Young.

Would Stop Egypt's Cotton.

[By Associated Press.]
London, May 6.—England has requested the government of Egypt to prohibit the export of cotton to all ports other than French, Russian, Spanish and Portuguese. England expects Egypt to very soon apply this embargo.

Dardanelles Fight Satisfactory.

[By Associated Press.]
London, May 6.—Premier Asquith today told the House of Commons the operations against the Dardanelles are being pressed forward under highly satisfactory conditions.

Germany Expects Great Victory.

[By Associated Press.]
Berlin, May 6.—It is believed here the French and British will hardly be able to hold Ypres another week. The Germans, it is reported, gained nearly three miles of ground near there in the last few days. It is declared the allies' retreat is disorderly, leaving numerous dead and wounded.

Negro Maid Swore Negro Detective Offered Her Money to Change Testimony.

[By Associated Press.]
Mineola, N. Y., May 6.—Celia Coleman, the negro maid, at Mrs. Florence Carman's trial today testified a negro detective offered her $300 to change her testimony in favor of Mrs. Carman.

VILLA-OBREGON BATTLE IS ON

[By Associated Press.]
Washington, May 6.—It is reported that Villa and Obregon troops are fighting at Morales. The Carranza agency says Obregon is attacking Aguas Calientes.

FRUIT TREES ARE SNOW COVERED

West Texas Pulls Off Another Wonderful Weather Stunt for May.

[By Associated Press.]
Dalhart, Tex., May 6.—Fruit trees in this section that are heavily laden with unripened fruit, today are white with snow. The snow followed an all-night rain.

GERMANS DID NOT HAVE TO INTERN

Many Thousands in England Are Free and Only Have to Report at Stated Times

London, May 6.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—Of the 27,200 male Germans above the age of 17 years in the United Kingdom, only 8,600 have been interned in the concentration camps. The remaining 18,600 are, save for having to report to the police at certain periods, quite as free as the neutral aliens in Great Britain.

These figures were made public in a government paper containing the correspondence between the British Foreign Office and the American Ambassador regarding the treatment of civilians.

The British government allowed German subjects to leave the country in the early days of the war as follows:

"Women and children, males under 16 and over 44 and persons between these years not liable to military service, provided they would give an undertaking to take no part, direct or indirect, in assisting in the operations of war."

Persons who were not allowed to leave were:

"Those under duty of naval or military service in Germany. Persons held in custody for crimes or on a definite suspicion of espionage. Persons between the ages of 16 and 44 who, although free from military or naval duty, would not give the undertaking referred to."

An agreement was accordingly made between the two governments. But elderly invalid British officers who were taking cures at the German baths at the time of the outbreak have not been released. Britain allowed retired German officers to return home, but Germany now demands an equivalent number of German officers captured in battle in exchange for the invalids.

6,000 BALES WERE SENT TO RUSSIA

Cargo Will Be Unloaded at Gothenburg and Transhipped to Moscow Firm

Galveston, Tex., May 6.—The American steamer Leelanaw sailed from here Wednesday afternoon for Gothenburg with 6,000 bales of cotton, which will be transhipped to Moscow, Russia, according to the agents' oath on the manifest.

This is the first time that cotton has been shipped to European Russia since the war began. Russia is badly in need of the staple, and this is an experiment by the Harris-Irby Company, owners of the ship, and shippers of the cotton, to open a way to sending cotton to that country. The British Admiralty ruling forbids shipments to Sweden, on account of transshipments to Germany, but it is not thought the Leelanaw will be held up as her cargo is for an ally of Great Britain. As Germany has not declared cotton contraband or prohibited its importation by neutral Nations as England has done, it is thought the vessel will not be in danger of being stopped by the Germans.

VICTIMS OF FLAMES NEAR UNTO DEATH

Little Hope for Men Caught in the Thrall Explosion of Gasoline.

Taylor, Tex., May 6.—Ben Fuchs, nephew of Fritz Fuchs, the oil king, and Carl Hanson, so horribly burned about midnight Tuesday night at Thrall, when a fifty-gallon tank of gasoline exploded, throwing the burning oil over them, are still in a critical condition and reports from the Taylor Sanitarium, where they were taken in an ambulance Tuesday night, state that their chances for recovery are slight. Fritz Fuchs, Louis Lutz and John Halm were also badly burned at the same time, but their injuries, while severe, are not serious. The big tank was exploded in the fire that burned the A. C. Probst warehouse, and these five were among the scores seeking to extinguish the flames. The big warehouse fire broke out shortly before midnight and a large crowd gathered, seeking to extinguish the flames. The building was destroyed, entailing $2,000 damage, covered by insurance. There were five fifty-gallon tanks of gasoline in the building, and two were successfully removed before the others exploded.

Ben Fuchs' home is at Phlogerville and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Fuchs, the former a brother of Fritz Fuchs, were notified and arrived here at noon Wednesday. Carl Hanson is from Detroit, Mich.
